Nazis Face Difficulties

DURING THE THREE YEARS of the war the Nazis have had many victories and have acquired many thousands of square miles of territory. Up until the present time in most cases it has appeared that Hitler has had the advantages of greater numbers of men and machines, and frequently time has also been his ally. It has often been pointed out that as his conquests increased so did his responsibilities, and if one may judge by the stories which from time to time reach the outside world from Occupied Europe, it appears that the enforcing of the New Order must take much of the time and attention of the conquering Fuehrer. The activities of the "underground army" in Europe have been combatted by wholesale murder of the conquered peoples, yet they do not decrease and will no doubt continue until the armies of the United Nations join them in force in a drive towards the heart of Germany.

The Spectre Of Famine

Other forces, at which Hitler cannot strike as easily as he can at defenceless people, are also working against him. From time to time there have been stories of food shortages in Europe. Recently Joseph W. Grigg, writing from London for the British United Press, reported that the German radio has admitted that eight million acres of crops were destroyed by the extreme cold last winter, which was said to be the most severe in one hundred and fifty years. The coming harvest is expected to be very small, for bad weather and insects have retarded growth, and there is said to be a shortage of six hundred thousand farm workers. Potatoes and other vegetables, Mr. Grigg reports, are more scarce than they have been since 1918, and vegetables are being rationed at the rate of one pound a person each week. Farmers in Germany have been ordered to give their entire crops to the government, keeping nothing for themselves. For violation of this law, the Gestapo has decreed penalties ranging from fines of one hundred thousand marks, to death.

Hatred Is Growing

There is also reported to be a grave shortage of fats and butter, and due to weather conditions there is an acute lack of fodder for cattle. The report continues that similar conditions exist in France, where farmers are selling such products as they have on the "Black Markets" rather than through government regulations. Although Hitler has sent many German workers to the Ukraine in an attempt to gather supplies, it is thought unlikely that he will receive a great deal from there, where the crop is said to be poor. With increased food restrictions, it is unlikely that the already poorly-fed people of Europe will feel more kindly toward those who have brought all this misery upon them. Although the Nazis may yet win a few more battles with men and machines, there is inevitably growing a tide of revolution in Europe, which linked with the growing striking power of the United Nations, will one day bring about the end of Hitler's New Order and of all those who aided in its prosecution. It is known that starvation of the population in Germany had a great deal to do with her final collapse in 1918, and there is no doubt that this force is beginning to work again, and that it will be one of the weapons which will again bring about the defeat of the enemy.

Britain's Spitfires

Woman Played Vital Part In Development Of Famous Fighters

"In 1931," writes William Winter in the current issue of the aviation magazine, Flying, "Lady Lucy Houston unwittingly preserved for Britain the priceless Spitfire lineage. She put up nearly a half million dollars to finance the 1931 British Schneider Trophy team, the Air Council having lost interest in further competition on England's part. It was at that time that won the famed trophy outright for England."

Before that, Lady Houston had financed the flight over Mount Everest. An English aviation correspondent, with whom the writer talked recently, pictured Lady Houston as a strong-willed, purposeful woman who was determined to do something worth while with her millions. According to this story, she had moved to the tax-free Isle of Jersey in the English Channel because of a tax dispute in England. Still she financed the winning Schneider team and according to hearsay, the original Vickers Wellington bomber.

"Thanks to Lady Houston, who seems to have had more aviation foresight than either the British or American Government in those days, R. J. Mitchell (designer of the Spitfire) was able to continue his experiments and finally to produce one of the greatest fighting ships of the present war."

Salads lend themselves so readily to decorative effects that for many years they had no more important part in diet than just that. But now, besides being highly decorative they are regarded by nutritionists as vital to the well-balanced diet. Rich in minerals and vitamins, the mixed salad or lettuce alone is becoming a staple food.

LETTUCE ALONE IS SALAD

Epicsures prefer lettuce salad mixed in a wooden bowl with wooden fork and spoon. Housewives prefer them because they are so easy to prepare. After following directions once or twice, anyone can make an excellent salad, and make it of a few odd ends but always beginning with fresh, crisp lettuce, either leaf or head.

HERE'S HOW

Into the salad bowl put salt, pepper and paprika in quantities your judgment suggests and your taste confirms. (Use extra salt, iodized) in summer to help prevent ill effects by heat.) Add three tablespoons of vinegar, preferably tarragon, and six or eight tablespoons of salad oil. Mix thoroughly, adding a button of peeled garlic if you want to be seriously regarded as a salad maker, then chopped celery, especially the green leaves, chioney, water cress, grated carrot or raw cauliflower, cheese, well seasoned, or definitely aged adds zest. Then the lettuce, a whole head leaved out. Stir up thoroughly and serve in generous portions with crackers or thin well-buttered rye whole wheat bread.

RABBITS DON'T MIND

Rabbits may enjoy wilted lettuce, humans, especially youngsters don't. There'd be fewer salad-refusers if the vegetables, fruit and lettuce were always appetizingly fresh and crisp.

EVERY DAY IS SALAD DAY

There is a salad for every day in the year and it is important to develop your taste for them because of threatened shortages of canned goods. A postal card to the Western Division Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, Ontario, will bring you a free vitamin chart for ready reference and a booklet "Salads that are Different."

Jute Becoming Scarce

Paper Bags May Have To Be Used For Fertilizers

Due to the shortage in the available supplies of jute, as a result of war conditions, it may be necessary next year to use paper bags entirely for fertilizers, G. S. Peart, Fertilizers Administrator, stated recently.

During the present season members of the fertilizer trade have been unable to obtain as many jute bags for packing their product as in other years and as the war continues fewer jute bags will be likely available. Jute comes almost entirely from Bengal district of India.

Fortunately Canada has generous supplies of pulpwood and therefore should be able to meet the needs of the fertilizer trade with paper bags, said Mr. Peart.

The Individual Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In Our Canadian Army.
By Alan Maurice Irvin

Some of the men who come in for more than their percentage of wise-cracks in the Canadian, or the British, or the American—and probably in the German and Japanese, for that matter—Army are the Intelligence Officers. The reason is obvious—but the facts don't substantiate the kid-dish.

Those of us on the outside are apt to think of "Secret Service" and to conjure up visions of daring spies who disguise themselves as organ-grinders or vegetable salesmen or glamorous syrens or something like that. People like E. Phillips Oppenheim are responsible for that idea.

I am not saying that there is not a certain percentage of clever espionage work done by the intelligence staffs of all armies but I do know that for every disguised operative who sneaks around in enemy territory there are a hundred careful, meticulous workers who spend long hours in offices at General Staff Headquarters sifting little bits of information that reach them from many sources.

They have a long, trying and arduous job to do, a job that calls for keen analysis, infinite painstaking—which has been called "genius"—devotion to duty and practical imagination. Nothing is too trivial for them to note, nothing too small it can hide wanted facts from them. As you follow through the organization of your Army you find intelligence officers at Division, Brigade and Unit Headquarters, all engaged in the vastly important job of gathering information that will be of value to the High Command.

How do you imagine, for instance, that our official communiques are able to state that "so many men and guns composed the opposing force"?

Don't think that some prisoner broke down and told it. To begin with no individual soldier below the rank of a general would know it. And, it must be remembered, International Law protects a soldier from answering questions other than his name, rank, etc., if he is captured. That is, of course, when you are dealing with an enemy who respects International Law.

But when you have a number of intelligence officers, trained in their jobs, questioning a large number of prisoners on different parts of the front and rapidly forwarding their information through the channels provided to a central point where it is all correlated and analyzed it is surprising to the layman how much accurate information of incalculable value to the General Staff can be obtained even from answers that add here to the instructions given to all soldiers to reveal nothing of their side's dispositions to their captors.

The same thing applies to the innocent little remarks some of us make at times to our friends, or to casual strangers we meet on the train or in a street car or at some gathering. We may think we are being very circumspect, we may feel that the information that our next door neighbour's boy is home on his last leave does not convey anything. It doesn't in itself, especially if we have been very careful not to say whether he is going east or west—but, and this is a big but, if in five or six other towns five or six other people let out similar information something like this may happen.

Let us assume that the five or six soldiers referred to are from three or four different units. The innocent remarks are collected by enemy agents and relayed to a central point. At once it is known that in the next few days a contingent of however many troops those four units represent is going overseas. To that same point come little bits of other information—gathered, for instance, in a tavern or coffee shop near a railway yard where a yard foreman or one of his helpers innocently remarks to a colleague that he has "to make up a 14-car special tomorrow for the port of Suchandach." The central correlator of information has an approximation of the time and size of the movement.

That's all he needs! The next step is to send word to a sniper commando that within so many days a troop convoy may be expected to move from "Suchandach." Simple, isn't it?

So let's keep our mouths shut. And let's ask no questions of our soldier, sailor and airman friends.

On the other hand, don't forget that the Intelligence Officer of the Unit or Headquarters near you will be very interested in anything you have to tell him that you think may be of use in his work.

And, while we are on the subject of helping people to do their jobs, here is some intelligence work we can do in the Individual Citizen's Army. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board is fighting an enemy that will be as dangerous after the war as the common foes are today, the enemy called Post-war Inflation.

The Board maintains an intelligence system on somewhat the same lines as the Army. Not a regiment of snipers but a number of trained businessmen whose job it is to watch for the infiltration of uncontrolled inflation behind 'our economic lines. They, too, note little bits of unrelated information that filter in from all over the country and from their correlation of these facts are able to determine how to dispose their forces.

If you know of anything that is contributing to higher prices tell the nearest representative of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. He will hold your name in confidence and you help him to fight your economic battles.

Boost Wheat Production

British Farmers May Have To Work At Night

Agriculture Minister Hudson told the House of Commons that plans for increasing wheat acreage in Britain might necessitate night work for farmers.

He said the area under wheat would be increased by 600,000 acres and "if certain arrangements we are discussing now mature, farmers will be expected to work by night as well as by day."

Barley for Choice Bacon
Bacon which is relished by the British consumer can only come from the right kind of hogs fed in the right way. That consumer happens to be Canada's best customer for this commodity. No matter how ideal the carcass may be, a hog will not yield good bacon unless it receives the right kind of feed. Which of the common grains is the best feed for bacon hogs has been the subject of a series of interesting tests conducted by Dr. R. W. Crampton, animal nutrition expert at Macdonald College, Quebec. The work was carried on under the auspices of the National Barley and Oats Committee. Western grains were used in the experiments. His first test was designed to determine the relative feeding values of barley, oats and corn. Barley was shown to be definitely superior to either grain or corn, whether rate of gain, efficiency of feed or carcass quality were measured. Oats resulted in faster gains and unfinished carcasses, but because the carcasses were so fat, they were overfinished. The next test was made to compare the feeding values of barley and oats. This was suggested by the Barley Committee because of the importance of wheat and the rapidly expanding swine industry in the western provinces. The results of the test showed that barley fed hogs yielded more suitable carcasses, but that getting wheat made faster gains. These results would suggest that a combination of feed, and at the same time obtain high quality. This is precisely what Dr. Crampton proposes to study in a test now in progress. In the meantime, farmers are being urged to grow more barley to feed more hogs, which are needed in Canada's expanding war program. Contributed by T. B. Dickeringill.

Gleichen Again Suffers Hail

A hail storm struck suddenly at Gleichen district, Aug 1st Tuesday night, beating to the ground some of the finest crops this country has seen for many years.

A swath, some six miles wide and 12 miles in length, between Standand and Chancellor, and such as far as the Crowfoot Indian Residential School at Giuny was laid low. In most cases, damage by hail was 100 per cent.

Some of these districts, especially around Standand, had been struck earlier in the season, but had recovered a little. Last night's storm however, finished off many of these crops.

Stobart, four miles west of Gleichen, also had some hail, but no damage was reported from that area

Hail Strikes In Cardston Area

CARDSTON, Aug. 1—Spring wheat and coarse grain in this area are excellent, but fall grain has been lodged by the wind and rains.

Hail struck the district west cutting a strip from Caldwell, through Mountain View, Beazer, and Boundary Creek where it hit it took a 30 per cent loss, doing considerable damage to grain, hay and demolish gardens. There is little grain planted in the strip hit, as it is mostly a ranching district.

A car at Mountain view was out in the storm and hail stones as big as pullet eggs fell, breaking two plate glass windows.
